Introduction

Hospital Reports (Connecticut State Library call number RC443.H6) is a 112-volume set of official reports from psychiatric hospitals in the United States, Canada, England, Ireland, Northern Ireland, Scotland, Wales, and South Africa, covering a period from roughly 1830 to 1896. Forty-one U.S. states and five Canadian provinces are represented.

Hospital Reports provides a great amount of statistical data on the state of psychiatric institutions and on the care and treatment of the mentally ill in Anglophone nations during the nineteenth century. These large hospitals were called at various times lunatic asylums, insane asylums, insane hospitals, and state hospitals, and reports were often made by “Commissioners in Lunacy.” Many patients in these hospitals were voluntarily admitted, others were committed by the courts. Patients were often from the lower classes since families with money could provide for private care. In many cases, the duration of treatment was only several months, in other cases, many years. The physical causes for treatment include heat stroke, opium, old age, overwork, syphilis, childbirth, exposure, epilepsy, imbecility, intemperance, lead poisoning, senility and general ill health. The “moral” causes for treatment include anxiety, fright, grief, disappointment, domestic and family troubles, financial and business troubles, and religious excitement. Statistics were kept on the numbers of patients admitted, discharged, remaining, recovered, improved, died, the age of patients, their occupations, where they were from, the duration of treatment, and degree of heredity in the family. However, the names of individual patients are generally not reported.

These reports were collected by the Connecticut Hospital for the Insane in Middletown (currently the Connecticut Valley Hospital, then and now an official state agency), and given to the Connecticut State Library in Hartford. The set mainly comprises annual or biennial reports of psychiatric hospitals, and also includes several short monographs from the period which address the condition of asylums and the treatment of the mentally ill. Since reports from many different institutions are bound together into annual volumes, the Connecticut State Library has compiled this three-part index for locating reports from specific hospitals within the yearly compilations.

Part 1, Arranged by place and name, lists the psychiatric hospitals alphabetically by U.S. state or Canadian province, then by locality. Great Britain, Ireland, and South Africa are listed together at the end. The hospitals changed names often over the years; under each locality, the institutions are arranged beginning with the earliest name of the hospital. Volume numbers wherein reports for individual years are located are listed after each institution. Part 1 also includes the main bibliographic entry for the independent monographs.

Part 2, by Catalog entry, lists the published reports as cited, by hospital name and by report title, in the State Library’s catalog. Again, hospitals from the U.S. and Canada are listed together and hospitals from the British Isles and South Africa are in a separate list at the end.

Part 3, Tables of Contents, lists the contents of each of the 112 volumes.
